So for the first three days, we do "get to know you" activities and work on our classroom procedures. My biggest tip that I've discovered over the past three years of teaching fifth grade is to not OVER PLAN. This is a major difference in fifth grade and first grade. I always ran out of things to do on the first few days of first grade. The beginning of the school year in fifth grade is a time to allow students to get to know each other, the teachers and how the classroom will operate. Create interactive icebreaker activities and activities that will introduce classroom rules and regulations. Fifth Grade Assessments: Beginning of the Year (late August-end of October) This slideshow features our best worksheets for assessing fifth grade skills at the beginning of the school year. Download all (19) This is a 5th grade Beginning of the Year math assessment. It has all of the 4th grade math standards in a multiple choice format just so I can see what the kids know and what they are struggling with. I also made a nice little data breakdown sheet so I can see at a quick glance just what skills the class as a whole needs help with, what they ...
